RE: New Program Proposal for a BS in Interior Design

In 2018, Southeast Missouri State University (SEMO) restructured the alignment of its colleges and departments for administration savings as well as better alignment of specific disciplines and ultimately, better support, service, and clarity to our students. The department of Human Environmental Studies was dissolved and the programs within that department absorbed by other departments aligned with those disciplines. Because of this restructuring and the sustainable interest and enrollments in the options of the BS in Human Environmental Studies, we are proposing those options be converted to standalone degree offerings as outlined below.

Current Program Offering:

Title	Degree	Options	CIP
Human Environmental Studies	BS	Child Development	190101
		Family Studies
		Dietetics
		Fashion and Consumer Studies
		Interior Design

Proposed Program Offerings

New Program Title	Degree	Options	Dept	CIP
Child and Family Studies	BS	Child Development	Child & Family Studies	190101
		Family Studies
Nutrition	BS		Kinesiology, Nutrition & Recreation	513101
Fashion and Consumer Studies	BS		Marketing	190905
Interior Design	BS		Art & Design	500408

The Interior Design option has had a long-standing history of strong enrollments and a strong need still exists within the region and globally for graduates of that program. Enrollment in the interior design option has increased to 50 students and we anticipate the program continuing to grow. Completers for the option last year was 8 and we also expect that number to increase to well over an average of 10 graduates per year.
